

YBTC research funding application process

Introduction

We have an open and transparent funding application process for Yorkshire-based research. We will call for applications publically, with all information available on our website.

Applications are made to us using a simple application form that requests key information from applicants, ensuring the process is as fair and simple as possible.

We aim to have two funding rounds for research proposals each year in Spring/Summer and Autumn/Winter, however the Board of Trustees may increase or decrease this dependent on the charity funds available.

The average grant level we have issued to date is £65,000, with the majority of projects running for between 1 and 3 years. We will consider applications up to a maximum value of £500,000 and the length of the funding period must be no more than 5 years.

Application Timeline

Our decision process will take up to 12 weeks from the application submission deadline to a decision being made. This enables us to undertake the internal triage and review, peer review (as required) and discussion at a Board of Trustee meeting.

Please note, that for some funding applications the Trustees may request further information from the applicant before making a final decision or there may be some difficulty in finding suitable peer reviewers and this may cause a delay. If this is the case the applicants will be advised accordingly.

Peer Reviewers

Peer reviewers are experts in their field. They may already be known to the Charity or we may make new approaches to those whose work is closest to the field of research.

For applications under £30,000 a decision will be made by the Board of Trustees; for those between £30,001 to £90,000 two external peer reviews will be required. For applications from £90,001 three external peer reviews will be undertaken.

Peer reviewers are not paid, but any out of pocket expenses incurred will be reimbursed as per our expenses policy.
